Unit of Competency

Functional Area: Sales and Merchandising

tange This unit of competency is applicable to practitioners in the import and export industry to design marketing channels. The tasks also involve the evaluation of the effectiveness and efficiency of marketing channels in making products available in the market. evel 4 tredit 5 (for reference only) competency Performance Requirement 1. Possess knowledge of value-network and marketing channels • Describe the concept of value-network, i.e., a system of partnerships and alliances that is created by firms to source and deliver products/services • Describe concept of marketing channels, i.e., sets of interdependent firms involved in making a product/service available in the market • Employ a wide range of approaches to design marketing channels 2.1. Analyse customers' desired service outputs • Collect relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lettify constraints to achieve desirable service outputs • Lettify the constraints of the use of marketing channels • Determine the standard of customer service • Establish the objectives of the use of marketing channels • Identify thannel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants • Evaluate each channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business and efficiency • Identify channel alternatives b	Title	Design marketing channels marketing channels. The tasks also involve the evaluation of the effectiveness and efficiency of marketing channels in making products available in the market. evel 4 tredit 5 (for reference only) competency Performance Requirement 1. Possess knowledge of value-network and marketing channels • Describe the concept of value-network, i.e., a system of partnerships and alliances that is created by firms to source and deliver products/services • Describe concept of marketing channels, i.e., sets of interdependent firms involved in making a product/service available in the market • Employ a wide range of approaches to design marketing channels 2.1. Analyse customers' desired service outputs • Collect relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lettify constraints to achieve desirable service outputs • Determine the standard of customer service • Establish objectives of the use of marketing channels • Identify the constraints of the use of marketing channels • Identify channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants • Evaluate each channel alternative in terms of its effectiveness and efficiency • Identify channel alternative in terms of its effectiveness and efficiency • Evaluate each channel alternative in terms of its effective	Code	105256L4
bredit 5 (for reference only) Competency Performance Requirement 1. Possess knowledge of value-network and marketing channels • Describe the concept of value-network, i.e., a system of partnerships and alliances that is created by firms to source and deliver products/services • Describe concept of marketing channels, i.e., sets of interdependent firms involved in making a product/service available in the market • Employ a wide range of approaches to design marketing channels 2.1. Analyse customers' desired service outputs • Collect relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Lett relevant information to analyse customers' desired service • Establish to bjectives of the use of marketing channels • Identify the constraints of the use of marketing channels </td <td>Range</td> <td>marketing channels. The tasks also involve the evaluation of the effectiveness and efficiency of</td>	Range	marketing channels. The tasks also involve the evaluation of the effectiveness and efficiency of Performance Requirement 1. Possess knowledge of value-network and marketing channels • Describe the concept of value-network, i.e., a system of partnerships and alliances that is created by firms to source and deliver products/services • Describe concept of marketing channels, i.e., sets of interdependent firms involved in making a product/service available in the market • Employ a wide range of approaches to design marketing channels 2.1. Analyse customers' desired service outputs • Collect relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Identify constraints to achieve desirable service outputs 2.2. Establish objectives and constraints • Determine the standard of customer service • Establish the objectives of the use of marketing channels • Identify the constraints of the use of marketing channels • Identify the constraints of the use of marketing channels • Identify channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants • Identify channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants • Identify channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants • Identify	Level	4
1. Possess knowledge of value-network and marketing channels • Describe the concept of value-network, i.e., a system of partnerships and alliances that is created by firms to source and deliver products/services • Describe concept of marketing channels, i.e., sets of interdependent firms involved in making a product/service available in the market • Employ a wide range of approaches to design marketing channels 2.1. Analyse customers' desired service outputs • Collect relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs • Identify constraints to achieve desirable service outputs 2.2. Establish objectives and constraints • Determine the standard of customer service • Establish the objectives of the use of marketing channels 3. Design effective marketing channels 3. Design effective marketing channels • Identify channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants • Evaluate each channel alternative in terms of its effectiveness and efficiency sesessment triteria The integrated outcome requirements of this unit of competency are: • Capable of analysing customers' desired service Capable of analysing customers' desired service • Capable of evaluating marketing channels and alternatives • Capable of evaluating marketing channels	Credit	5 (for reference only)
 Capable of analysing customers' desired service Capable of identifying major marketing channels and alternatives Capable of evaluating marketing channels and alternatives 	Competency	 Possess knowledge of value-network and marketing channels Describe the concept of value-network, i.e., a system of partnerships and alliances that is created by firms to source and deliver products/services Describe concept of marketing channels, i.e., sets of interdependent firms involved in making a product/service available in the market Employ a wide range of approaches to design marketing channels Analyse customers' desired service outputs Collect relevant information to analyse customers' desired service outputs Identify constraints to achieve desirable service outputs Establish objectives and constraints Determine the standard of customer service Establish the objectives of the use of marketing channels Identify the constraints of the use of marketing channels Design marketing channels Design effective marketing channels Identify channel alternatives by key elements, e.g., the type of business intermediaries, the number of intermediaries, and terms and responsibilities of each channel participants
Remark	Assessment Criteria	 Capable of analysing customers' desired service Capable of identifying major marketing channels and alternatives
	Remark	